DR. H. W. WILEY RESIGNS PLACE

Father of Pure Food Law Quits Government Service.

WORKS FOR PUBLIC HEALTH

Departure of Chief Chemist Removes Leading Figure in Long Controversy Involving Secretary of Agriculture Wilson.

Washington, March 16.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief chemist of the department of agriculture, sent his resignation to Secretary Wilson.

Dr. Wiley's retirement from government service removes a cause of much of the friction which has existed in the department for years over the administration of the pure food laws. Dr. Wiley has been the unrelenting foe of interests which controlled the manufacture of food articles considered detrimental to health and as such has won world wide fame.

Reports a few days ago were to the effect that Dr. Wiley would become the editor of the Good Housekeeping magazine. The statement frequently has been made that conditions in the department of agriculture sooner or later would compel President Taft to dispense with Dr. Wiley or Secretary Wilson, and the resignation of both men had been reported.

In an official statement from the White House President Taft expressed regret at Dr. Wiley's resignation.

Dr. Wiley's action came as a dramatic climax to a long conference he had with Secretary Wilson in the latter's private office. The secretary would make no statement other than that Dr. Wiley had handed in his resignation. No reasons were given, he said.

Dr. Wiley announced that he would devote the rest of his life to urging the creating of a national health department, entirely separate from any other branch of the government service.

Although rumors had been current for several weeks that the government's pure food expert was about to leave the service, the actual news of his resignation came as a decided surprise to official Washington. To all reports of his proposed resignation Dr. Wiley had made emphatic denials.

Five Killed in Alabama Hurricane.

Troy, Ala., March 16.—A hurricane struck Headland, Ala., near here. Five persons were killed, two others were fatally injured and five others hurt. Many houses were demolished.

Oldest Teacher Dies.

LaCrosse, Wis., March 16. — Frank Gallup, oldest teacher in Wisconsin in point of service, is dead. He was teaching his seventy-fifth term.

FORMER YPSI MAN DIES FROM RECENT INJURY

Word has been received from New York City of the death of Brainard Rorison, a former resident of this city. His death was the result of a fall.

Mr. Rorison was born in Waterloo, N. Y. His parents removed to Ypsilanti in his infancy, and he lived here for a number of years. When he was a young man he went to Indianapolis and engaged in business with success. It was in this city that he met and married Miss Mary Morris Vance, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Vance. He went to New York later and was engaged in the contracting business. He was a member of many clubs and of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church.

Mr. Rorison was an uncle of Mrs. Gertrude Rorison Garrison and Mrs. Lucinda Lee Buxton, both former residents of this city.

BUYS OUTPUT OF MINES

Pere Marquette Prepares for Threatened Shortage of Coal.

Flint, Mich., March 16.—The Consolidated Coal company of Saginaw is serving notice on its patrons in this city that it has received from the Pere Marquette railroad an order that covers practically all of the output of its mines between now and April 1.

The railroad company is preparing for the threatened strike of coal miners on that date and is accumulating all the coal it can in order to be in a position to operate its road until such time as the miners resume work. It is said that the railroad has also engaged to take the larger part of the Whatcher Coal company of Bay City for the remainder of this month.

TO GUARD SETTLERS

Senate Passes Bill Affecting Cheap Land Schemes.

House Holds Up Matter for Further Investigators Following Affirmative Vote in Upper Branch.

Lansing, Mich., March 16.—Without objection the senate passed a bill intended to put a stop to the practice of land speculators using cheap lands of Michigan to float so-called improvement schemes, which cost the state a big bill of expense without adding any real settlers.

The bill provides that all plats in townships outside cities must be approved by the board of supervisors or board of auditors.

It is aimed directly at preventing another "Fruitville Land Improvement company," disposing of thousands of small plats to people who know nothing of the lands which they are buying, as was done with a considerable piece of land in Muskegon county last year at the Chicago land show, when these Fruitvale lots were given away—provided the holder of the coupon would pay for a warranty deed and the recording charged at $3, more than sufficient to yield a neat profit to the speculator for the small bit of land.

The bill passed the senate without trouble, but was held up in the house by reason of the play of some members for time to examine its items. Representative Giles of Muskegon explained the bill was intended to hit "the land sharks."

In the senate both Senator Vanderwerp and Senator Walter urged the passage of the bill for similar reasons and they pointed out that the cost to the state of this process would soon become enormous if the practice is continued, as township boards are not inclined to interfere. It is expected that boards of supervisors will exercise some judgment.

A VIOLIN RECITAL MONDAY

MISS MURPHY WILL ASSIST, ACCOMPANIED BY PROF. ALEXANDER.

Miss Abba Owen will present her class of violin pupils in a recital Monday evening, March 18, at eight o'clock in Normal hall. The players will range from the beginners of her class up through the advanced pupils, twenty-two in all, and those who have attended the recitals of other seasons will be prepared for the fine treat this annual recital always proves. Miss Aurelia Murphy, soprano, will assist, and she will be accompanied by Prof. Alexander.

PRES. HUTCHINS GOES EAST IN INTEREST OF THE UNIVERSITY

Ann Arbor, March 16—President Hutchins left Thursday for New York City, New Haven, and Washington, D. C., on university affairs. The president was to have been in Boston on March 19, where he was to have been the principal speaker at the New England Alumni association banquet on that date, but a telegram has been received announcing that the banquet had been unavoidably postponed.

Gas Co. Invites Rate Comparison

(Communication)

If the city takes over the gas works it will derive no benefit unless the price of gas is reduced. The only municipal gas plant in Michigan (Escanaba) now charges $1.40 net for gas, as compared with a maximum net in Ypsilanti of $1.00.

If Escanaba charged only $1.00, there would be a tax of 40 cents a thousand feet which would come out of the people's pockets equally whether they used gas or not. The annual sales in Ypsilanti are over 44,000,000 cubic feet. If 40 cents per 1,000 feet of gas produced here was taken from the taxes it would mean $17,600 a year which would come from the taxpayers of Ypsilanti for the support of a municipal gas plant.

If the city cannot manufacture gas at $1.00 per thousand or less the loss will come from the taxes. This will mean an increase in the tax rate. Not only that, but if the city buys the gas plant it will lose $2,000 or more a year in taxes which the gas company is paying. The other taxpayers will have to make up this loss.

Below we give a list of all the gas plants in Michigan. It will be noticed that out of 56 plants only five charge less than is charged in Ypsilanti, and these are all in larger places, and where manufacturing conditions are more favorable. In most placess the size of Ypsilanti the price is 35% to 50% higher than here. What favora-

NO INDICATION OF COMPROMISE TO END STRIKE

New York, March 16—A suspension of work of 180,000 miners in the anthracite coal region on April 1 can be prevented only by a compromise, but neither the coal operators nor the miners gave the slightest indication today of yielding from their positions.

The miners have decided to modify their demands for a 20 per cent increase in wages, and eight-hour work day, recognition of the union and other conditions, and the operators made no counter proposal that might pave the way for a compromise.

Members of the anthracite miners' committee conferred today on a statement given out by the operators that it was impossible to advance wages unless they could in some manner realize from the sale of coal produced a sum equal to the increase in wages.

Should neither side retreat from its present position, the mine workers in the hard coal region will on the expiration of the present working agreement on March 31, lay down their tools and suspend work until an agreement is reached. It is within the power of the policy committee at their meeting on March 25 in Cleveland to call a strike in both the hard and soft coal regions, should the bituminous men and their employes fail to reach an agreement at the Cleveland conference next Wednesday.

London, March 16—The failure of the conferences between the striking British miners and the mine owners, which have been proceding for several days under the presidency of Premier Asquith, to reach a settlement of the coal strike has brought Great Britain to the realization of the serious position of industries beside the one directly affected.

In many places manufacturers have only kept their works going by extraordinary efforts. They will no longer be able to do this and within a few days hundreds of thousands more men and women will be added to the 2,000,000 and over already idle.

This morning the Great Western Railway Co. shut down its construction works at Swinton, throwing out of employment 10,000 skilled mechanics.

Thus far the strike has been carried on with practically no disorder. The critical moment has now arrived, hovewer, and precautions are being taken by the authorities to check any outbreaks that might be engendered by the return to work of non-unionists miners.

WILL TAKE UP NEW WORK

H. M. FRAIN LEAVES MOCCASIN COMPANY TODAY FOR THE CEMENT BUSINESS.

The resignation of H. M. Frain as manager of the Elkskin Moccasin company, which was tendered the company in January, took effect today. Mr. Frain has severed his connection with the company in order to enter into a partnership with his brother-in-law, W. R. Schaffer in the work of cement contracting, and brick, stone and plaster work.

The name of the new firm will be Schaffer & Frain. The Atwood McAndrew and the John Miller houses are recent examples of Mr. Schaffer's work, and the firm starts the season just about to open with a number of desirable contracts.

The prospects are that W. D. Crocker will come from Detroit to take Mr. Frain's place as manager of the moccasin company. The matter will be definitely decided in the immediate future.

WANT TO KNOW THE REASON

H. S. FACULTY MAY MAKE RIGID INVESTIGATION OF SECRET SOCIETIES.

Despite the new state law and the fact that the high school authorities have ruled that there shall be no fraternities or sororities in the school the spirit of the organizations seems to have been kept up during the past winter and parties have been given by the societies which were formerly known as certain fraternities. Investigations are pending and the matter will probably be brought up before the next meeting of the school board to be held next week. Under the new state law the pupils if found guilty will be subject to a fine.

STUDENTS ARE GOOD ACTORS

"OUT IN THE STREETS" AT THE CLEARY COLLEGE HALL IS A MARKED SUCCESS.

The reports that had gone abroad of the play to be put on Friday evening by the Cleary College Fellowship in the college hall were so provocative of interest and the preparations under direction of Ernest C. Morgan were so thorough and extensive that a large number defied the untoward weather and attended the performance of "Out in the Streets." The students put on a play that would have been a credit to more experienced amateurs and they were sustained by a never-failing enthusiasm on the part of the audience.

The plot of the play proved very taking, and the specialties by Henry Glazier as Pete were enthusiastically applauded. Miss Allen did capital work as the heroine of the piece and there were none in the cast who did not please the audience. Two pieces from Kilian's orchestra played. At the close of the performance Iba Bassett, assisted by Robert Schrepper and Howard Fowler, took a flashlight of the players, and they have been in much demand today.

It is quite probable that the play will be repeated to accommodate those whom the storm prevented from attending.

Succumbs After Short illness

The death of Charles B. Wilkinson occurred at his residence, 513 Huron street, Friday afternoon as a resudt of a complication of diseases. Mr. Wilkinson was 57 years old. He had not been in good health for some time but his friends anticipated nothing serious until a short time before his death. He is survived by a widow and three sons, Clarence of Fremont, O., Roy of Detroit and Glenn of this city. He is also survived by two brothers, Prof. Arthur Wilkinson of Western High school, Detroit, and Martin Wilkinson of Lansing and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Smith and Mrs. Minnie Smith of Denton.

The funeral will be held from his late residence Monday afternoon at two o'clock with interment at Highland cemetery.

SILENT TRAIN ROBBER SLAIN

Ben Kilpatrick, One of Men Killed in Texas, Had a Bad Record.

St. Louis, Mo., March 16.—Local police received positive confirmation that one of the bandits killed by Express Messenger David A. Trousdale near Sanderson, Tex., was Ben Kilpatrick, known here as "the silent train robber" and the "Montana train robber."

Kilpatrick was convicted here for passing stolen bank notes, which it was asserted were part of the loot obtained in the Great Northern train robbery near Wagner, Mont., in 1901. He was recently released from the federal prison at Atlanta and sent to Concho county, Teas, for trial for an old murder charge.

ROBIN BRAVES STORM AND MAKES APPEARANCE EARLY THIS MORNING

A robin has been seen this morning on Summit street and has been fed very gladly by its discoverer.

GOVERNOR'S PLAN FOR NEXT SESSION IS NOT ANNOUNCED

Lansing, March 16—The paramount question about the capitol following the adjournment of the legislature Friday was, What matters will Gov. Osborn bring before the next special session?

The governor has not told just exactly what he intends to do. He will withhold matters until his message is prepared early in the week.

His immediate effect presidential primary plan and women's suffrage are his principal bills.

State Primary.

It is quite possible that a primary for all state officers can be passed at the next session, providing Osborn again brings this matter up, as he promises. But it is likely that justices of the supreme court will not be included along those to be named in the primary. There was considerable opposition to including them in the bill that passed the house this week, but finally they were left in on the theory that the senate would leave them out if it passed the bill at all. The bill reached the senate only on Friday morning, when there was no time to consider it.

The conference committee reported back the Employers' Liability bill differences having compromised by making some twenty changes. It was finally passed by the decisive vote of 94 ayes.

The bill is not perfect; it will cost the state in a salaried board $3500 apiece for three members, $2500 for a secretary. But it is a starter. The senate conference committee raised the rates of salaries fixed by the house.

There may be wheels within wheels skullduggery here, but they keep safely hidden, for, not a sign of graft, peculation, bribing, intimidation or any undue influence, whatever, has your correspondent seen during a four months' session. And he has been on the job every minute.

Representative Field gave one day's notice that he would move to take the bond surety bill from the committee.

Couldn't Prevent Adjournment.

Nobody seems to know what the next move will be. Rep. Rankin was one of a minority which tried to prevent adjournment until the bills on the calendar were disposed of, a minority which did not want to see the state put to the expense of a second special session.

It seems that everything might have been done by the end of another week but a majority in both houses wouldn't have it so, refusing to stay without compensation.

The preference primary bill taken off the table in the senate was held up by the eleven obstructionists. So it is now dead for this session.

NEW SCIENCE PROFESSOR

BERTRUM G. SMITH WILL SUCCEED PROF MAGERS AT THE NORMAL COLLEGE.

The state board of education has elected Bertrum G. Smith as assistant professor in the natural science department to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Samuel D. Magers last fall. He is a graduate of Columbia and expects to take his Ph.D. degrees from that institution this June, and is also a graduate of the State Normal school at Edinboro, Pa., and the University of Michigan.

FREE SUGAR BILL GOES

Passes House by Vote of 198 to 103.

Republicans Vainly Try to Tack on Amendments Providing a Nominal Duty.

Washington, March 16.—By a vote of 198 to 103 the house passed the Democratic bill placing sugar on the free list.

Both Representative Underwood and Minority Leader Mann demanded a roll call on the final passage of the bill, so as to put each member of the house on record.

A day of heated partisan debate under the five-minute rule preceded the passage of the measure. Various Republican amendments were offered, the majority of them seeking to place a nominal duty on sugar.

All amendments were defeated and the bill passed the house as it came from the ways and means committee.

RINGLEADERS OF GANG ARE TAKEN

Floyd Allen Is Slowly Dying in Hillsville Jail.

WOMAN SLAIN IN RIFLE FIGHT

Detectives Capture Sidney Allen at Home in Mountains—Special Grand Jury Called to Act on Courthouse Murders.

Hillsville, Va., March 16. — Two of the ringleaders of the "Allen gang," which slew the judiciary of Carrol county, are heavily guarded in the county jail here.

They are Floyd Allen and his brother, Sidney Allen. The former's life is slowly ebbing away as the result of wounds received in the courthouse fray and from a slashed throat, self inflicted with a pen knife, while Sidney is seriously wounded as the result of a battle with the Daldwin-Felts detectives.

The detectives arrived in Hillsville early in the day and were sworn in as special constables of the county. They went to the hotel room where Victor Allen was guarding his father, Floyd Allen, and both were placed under arrest without any semblance of a fight. Immediately upon his arrest Floyd Allen drew a pen knife and slashed his throat, but officers prevented the carrying out of his intentions. Victor Allen, Cabell Strickland and Byrd Marion are held as witnesses to the courthouse crime.

The thirty picked detectives then struck the trail of Sidney Allen and his wife, who later were located at their home in the mountains, several miles from Hillsville. When the detectives arrived at the clearing surrounding the house Allen and his wife opened fire upon the officers, who retreated behind nearby trees. The fire was returned with accuracy, every window in the house being shattered, the detectives shooting and killing Mrs. Allen instantly, while Sidney Allen was so seriously wounded that he surrendered and the officers brought him to the county jail here. The jail is protected by forty heavily armed citizens and the deputy sheriffs sworn in by Judge W. R. Staples.

The news of the arrest of Sidney Allen and of the death of his wife was communicated to Governor Mann, who earlier in the day had been apprised by Attorney General Williams that Sidney Allen was the man who fired the shot that killed Judge Massie.

The surprise of the day was the announcement of the death of Miss Nacy Elizabeth Ayres, a nineteen-year-old girl who was in the court room as a witness. No one in Hillsville knew she had been wounded until her death was announced. When she left town for her home she did not know she had been shot, but complained of bruises which she thought she had received in the mad rush from the courtroom. Without a doubt Miss Ayres was shot accidentally.

That the Allen gang and their friends are not leaving anything undone to prevent capture is shown by the crippling of the telephone and telegraph systems. The insulators were broken by bullets from rifles and pistols and there is only one phone wire working out of Hillsville.

Judge Walter R. Staples of Roanoke, Va., who ascended the bench of the circuit court to hold the remainder of the March term, summoned a special grand jury to indict the murderers of Judge Massie, Commonwealth Attorney W. M. Foster and Sheriff Webb.

CONVICT SLAYERS AT LARGE

Trio Who Murdered Nebraska Penitentiary Officers Still Free.

Lincoln, Neb., March 16.—The three convicts who dynamited their way to freedom from the state prison during a blinding snowstorm, following an outbreak in which the warden, deputy warden and an usher were killed outright and a guard was slightly wounded, are still at large, and the authorities have no clew to their whereabouts.

The escaped prisoners were clad only in their prison suits. It is believed they were assisted by confederates on the outside.

TRAIN RUNS INTO FACTORY

Backing Cars Drive Another Car Off Track and Into Building.

Cleveland, O., March 16.—One man was killed and twenty others narrowly escaped with their lives when an Erie freight train crashed into the factory of the Ferry Nut and Set Screw company here.

The accident happened on a steep grade. As the engine reached the top the weight of the cars dragged the whole train back. It struck a car on a siding and crashed into the factory.

THE PEOPLE OF YPSILANTI CANNOT AFFORD TO GRANT ANY GAS COMPANY ANY FRANCHISE IT WILL ACCEPT.

THE PEOPLE SHOULD OWN AND OPERATE THE GAS BUSINESS FOR THEIR OWN PERPETUAL BENEFIT, AND NOT PERMIT A NON-RESIDENT PRIVATE CORPORATION, FOR REVENUE ONLY, TO TRAFFIC IN THEIR NECESSITIES.

If we can get a verbatim report of the proceedings of the special session of the legislature, we will be able to differentiate from the others those representatives of the people who do not represent them and who are opposed to rule by the people as well by putting those who are opposed to the immediate effect clause in a class called "unrepresentative" as we could if they opposed the presidential preference primary absolutely. The fellow who is opposed to the presidential preference primary taking immediate effect is the fellow who is unalterably opposed to it altogether. He would use his secret influence to the utmost to defeat any primary bill if he didn't fear going back home and facing his constituents; so he thinks he may be able to pull the wool over their eyes by making them believe he actually helped pass a primary bill and then inserts some emasculating clause such as providing for the holding of the primary at a time when it couldn't possibly prevent his getting away with the goods.

Not by any means the least important public service which the large metropolitan dailies of the state can confer upon the people will be to show just what record the opponents of the primary write while in Lansing and to publish just who are the real interests which control them at Lansing. This sort of information will enable the people through the press to know what to do with these gentlemen when they seek future political honors.

Big business is opposed to presidential preference primary for exactly the same reason that it has opposed all primary reform,—because it will render it more difficult for it to run the politics of the country for revenue only. Then, hide-bound partisans, as a species, still exist. This species places partisanship above patriotism and goes into paroxyisms of horror at any innovation which may, as they think, weaken party organization. But what justifiable use can be assigned for the existence of party organization if not to further the best interests of the people in a governmental way? If the people are satisfied with these innovations as they proclaim themselves to be wherever they have been tried, then it seems to us that this species of opposition to popular government may in the near future become extinct, without any serious loss to the country.

A WORD OF WARNING AGAINST THE USE OF COLORING DYES

(By B. W. Peet)

Now that Saint Patrick's Day and Easter will soon be here a word of warning as to the use of coloring matter in foods and candy may not be out of place.

Our food laws are not very strict as to the use of coloring matter. The United States government has found seven aniline colors that are apparently harmless in very small amounts but manufacturers use several hundred coal tar dyes, most of which are highly poisonous. It is practically impossible for the chemist to distinguish the particular kind of dye which has been added to the food or beverage so we are dependent upon the honesty of the manufacturer as to the kind of dye and the amount he uses.

Even if the dyes are harmful, say the manufacturers, it takes so little to color things, that no harm can follow their use. That might be true if he mixed, ground and thoroughly stirred the poison until it was evenly distributed as does the druggist in making pills. But a food manufacturer, knowing nothing of how to handle poisons, simply throws the coloring matter into the product, stirs it up a bit and lets it go at that. The poison is too often in lumps. That is why one person will eat artificilly colored food with no apparent effect whereas another gets a lump of poison and is made sick or is killed.

A commission was appointed by the French government to investigate the toxic effect of aniline dyes. They found that most of the colors examined were poisonous and concluded that there was no relationship between the composition and toxicity. The commission states further, "Considering all these facts, the Commission is of the opinion that the use of coal tar colors in food products should be prohibited."

The writer has records of several persons that have been poisoned from eating colored food. A few months ago a young lady in one of the 5 and 10 cent stores of Detroit was killed from eating cheap colored candy. A little boy, aged four, of Marshal, Michigan, was poisoned by eating a candy Easter egg and was barely saved from death. Only last year at Ann Arbor green ice cream was served at a party on Saint Patrick's Day and all suffered from poisoning.

"Food colors are a risky business," says Uncle Sam in one of his bulletins, "And if it were not for the powerful influence established by long custom and fortified by the indifference of the public when pink, green, scarlet and yellow candies, gelatines, ice creams, fruits, etc., are wanted I would wipe out the whole miserable artificial and valueless practice." Even some of the vegetable dyes have been found to contain excessive quantities of arsenic.

The North Dakota Statute completely prohibits the sale of foods or beverages which contain coal tar or aniline dyes. This was brought about largely through the efforts of the present Food Commissioner, E. F. Ladd. Much pressure has been brought to his department so to modify the law as to permit the use of certified colors but he is very firm. Here is a quotation from one of his monthly bulletins:

"Outside of confectionery, there is no excuse for the use of colors, so far as the writer has been able to learn. When coal tar dyes are added to a beverage to be known as strawberry or raspberry, it is done for the purpose of deception. When jellies and jams are colored it is done for purposes of deception. When distilled or white vinegars are colored it is done for purposes of deception. When imitation ciders are prepared color is added for deception. When synthetic vanillin extract is prepared, it is colored with coal tar dye for purposes of deception. Lemon extract is colored with naphthol yellow to make it appear like lemon extract containing the color of orange and lemon skin for no other purpose than deception. The writer maintains that when color is added to butter it is for the purpose of deception and is no more desirable in the case of butter than in the case of whiskey where alcohol and other chemicals are made to have the appearance of old aged whiskey or brandy or blackberry cordial. Are these dyes harmless? By no means. Aniline itself is a poison so the aniline dyes are toxic. The writer can point to two instances in North Dakota where death has resulted from the use of coal tar dye intended as a butter-color. The writer saw the ill effects from the eating of candy colored with an objectionable coal tar dye where physicians were called to treat the patients, and later the writer made an examination of the candy and found that coal tar dye was the one objectionable feature and this of a particularly bad character; while a student in his own laboratory was stricken down within 2 hours after eating of this candy and suffered severely from the effects of the same. The writer is now convinced that the death of a brother at the age of four years came as a result of eating candy colored with coal tar dye; and we know of numerous instances of a like nature. We have in mind at the present time a case where the wearing of a fur collar, which had been dyed with coal tar dye to give it the appearance of a fur which it was desired to imitate, resulted in poisoning the face and neck. The patient was treated at a hospital and recovered from the ill effects, again bundled up with the fur collar, prespired and produced the same toxic condition. This was repeated over and over again. The writer made an examination of the fur collar, found the dye to be coal tar dye. The collar was discarded, and no further trouble followed. If from a fur collar or from a pair of stockings enough of this coal tar can be absorbed into the protective skin of the body to produce such serious results why should we not expect more serious effects from taking even greater quantities of these same dyes into the stomach in connection with our food and beverages."

So long as manufacturers are allowed to use poisonous dyes so long will there be danger and at any time you may be the person that gets the lump of poison. The practice of coloring foods artifically should be discouraged. Keep your color schemes out of foods. Green Maraschino Cherries are colored with aniline dyes. Very few, if any, of the jellos or gelatines on the market ever "saw" any fruit and yet they are put on the table as strawberry jello or raspberry gelatine. The manufacturers dare not even claim they are genuine fruit flavors. If you will but read the label you will see "Imitation Strawberry Flavor, Artifically Colored."

Gelatine is a wholesome and delicate food, so why not buy the colorless and flavor with canned fruit and fresh fruit.

Why use any artifical coloring in foods at all? Why not carry out the color schemes in flowers and decorations outside the food? A dye added to a food is a deception and the practice on your part only encourages the baker, the grocer, the manufacturer to put on the market such articles as Maraschino cherries, artifically colored and imitation flavored gelatines, jellies and jams.

IN MEMORIUM

IDA M. SPEAR.

Ida M. Spear was born in the township of Rome, Lenawee County, Michigan, October 26, 1856, and died at her home in Ypsilanti, Michigan, Tuesday morning, February 27, 1912.

The first twenty-one years of her life were spent in school and at home with her parents. December 9, 1877, she was married to Jefferson R. Thomas. They resided on a farm in Lenawee County until September, 1901, when they moved to Ypsilanti with their family to obtain the educational advantages which the schools of this city afforded, and where they have since made their permanent home.

Mrs. Thomas, although never identifying herself with a church, has lived a useful and beautiful Christian life, devoting the most of her time to the welfare of her family. And in all of her undertakings she was a helpful, cheerful wife, mother and friend, giving aid or comfort to those who needed it.

She was a charter member of Faith Chapter, O. E. S., located at Addison, Michigan, where she was Worthy Matron. Since her residence in Ypsilanti she affiliated with the Ypsilanti Chapter and also became a member of the Degree of Honor.

She leaves to mourn her loss, a devoted husband, one daughter, Mrs. Genevieve Woodward, and three sons, George B. Thomas, Charles L. Thomas and Grover C. Thomas, of Detroit; one brother and five sisters; besides these, many other relatives and a host of friends who admired and respected her because of her friendly disposition and noble character.

The funeral services were held at the late residence, Friday afternoon, March 1, 1912, Rev. A. G. Beach of Ann Arbor officiating. The remains were laid in the vault in Highland cemetery. The floral offerings were many and beautiful.

Among those from out of town who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Lawrence, of Hudson; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Teachout, Mr. Burt Spear, and Mr. Chas. L. Reynolds, of Onstead; Mrs. Emma Holdridge of Detroit; Mr. David E. Wilcox of Grand Rapids; Miss Xara Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. George Baragar, of Adrian.

LAST CHANCE FOR GOOD THING, SAYS YPSILANTI VOTER

(Communication)

Ypsilanti, Mich., March 13, 1912.

Editor of the Press:

Dear Sir—As we are to vote this spring on the question of a municipal gas plant I feel very much interested in the outcome as it will effect us all in dollars and cents and it seems to me that this is Ypsilanti's last chance to rise from being a mere suburb of Detroit and Ann Arbor to a city of the first magnitude of its size and class. As it used to be fifty years ago when our influence was felt all over the state.

Out fathers have been wise in conserving some of our natural resources such as some of our water power and our own domestic water supply. And we now have a chance to conserve our right to produce our own light, fuel and a part of our power. If we lose this opportunity our beautiful little city will doubtless sink, slowly but surely, to the condition of a mere hamlet, but with the control of all of our natural utilities and resources we will forge ahead and be the most progressive little city in this state. Ann Arbor has given her birthright away for a mess of pottage and now she will have to give a mortgage on every piece of property in the city to buy back what she has given away and have a right to produce her own supply of water. They have also given a monopoly franchise on a part of their light, power and fuel supply which puts them in a bad financial condition. Some think that if we owned our own gas plant that we would get sick of it but if this were possible I believe that it could be sold at a good premium anytime so that we would take no chances of a loss. I commend the wisdom of our council in letting the people decide this very important question as the people almost always decide these questions right when they have a fair understanding of the case. A good little gas plant here will pay for itself mostly with but very little direct taxation, say we can pay six or eight thousand a year out of the gas receipts until the bonds are paid.

Yours very truly,
A. W. WOODBURY.

Linguistic Donnybrook.

"I observe that the natives of Terre Haute are indulging in a controversy over the proper pronunciation of the name of their fair city," said the commercial traveler. "Some insist upon the good old home flavored 'Terry Hut,' while the more cultured, affecting horror at such provincialism, declare it should be 'Tear-ah-Hote,' and still others prefer 'Tear-Hautay.'

"I see oportunities for extensive trouble in this discussion. What if other places which have suffered by rank Anglicizing in their names should follow the example of the Indiana town? The result would be a linguistic Donnybrook. Consider the possibilities of these common methods of pronunciation.

"Baton Rouge, Batten Ruge; Bellefountaine, Belfountain; Boise, Boys; Charleroi, Charley Roy; Des Moines, Dee-moyne; Detroit, Dee-troite; Dubois, Duboys; Fond du Lac, Fondelak; Gallipolis, Gal-police; Montpelier, Montpeelier, and Prairie du Chien, Prairie doo-Sheen."

NEW PLANTS ARE BEING TRIED OUT

Test of Imported Products In American Soil.

ADDING TO FOOD SUPPLY.

Department of Agriculture Finds Substitute For Cranberries—Dasheen In Place of Potato—Toothsome Fruit of Salad Variety—Valuable Grasses.

Several new and valuable plants have recently been developed in this country from among the immense number annually imported and "tried out" by the department of agriculture. It is never possible to tell when a new plant is secured whether it will do well in its new surroundings and whether, if it does, it will prove of real value. The new plants have to be tried out, and this method has to wait for a year or more before being considered at all conclusive.

Four of the plants that the department has been working with for a long time have given returns almost simultaneously. They are the carrissa grandiflora, a southern substitute for the cranberry; the Chinese wood oil nut, the avacado and the Rhodes grass from South Africa. This last is considered one of the most valuable finds of recent years, and, being a grass, it was possible to mature and test it quickly.

One of the drawbacks of Florida and much of the gulf state territory from the earliest settlements was the lack of a suitable forage grass. Of course there was grass and a lot of other vegetation that would serve for forage, but grass that could be cut for hay would not grow, owing to the great heat and much dry weather.

Grass From Rhodesia.

This grass from Rhodesia that is known as Rhodes grass grows waist high and has been found to be excellently adapted to Florida and all the southern edge of the gulf states where grass and alfalfa would not thrive. It can be cut two or three times a year and has yielded as much as four tons to the acre. And the cattle like it. One of the experts of the department who have been over the trial plots said he had seen one pasture where a cow had gone through and eaten the Rhodes grass down close and neglected the Bermuda grass and other native grasses altogether.

Another plant that promises well for the south is the carrissa, which is the southern substitute for the cranberry. It is a tall shrub, utterly unlike the cranberry in general appearance, but it fruits heavily, and the berries are said to be a satisfactory substitute for the cranberry.

The Chinese wood oil tree has been in process of trying out for several years. It is a regular tree and takes time to develop, but when a grove is once in bearing it produces a steady income at small expense. The tree has been tried out in Florida, South Carolina and Alabama. One tree in Alabama that is now seven years old grew a crop of nuts the last season that produced something over four pounds of oil.

Oil Valued at 75 Cents a Gallon.

This oil is worth 75 cents a gallon, and at that rate a grove of trees ought to produce at the rate of from $30 to $60 per acre. The oil is about as difficult to extract as cottonseed oil. The chief use of the oil is as a substitute for linseed oil in paint. It has been used by the Chinese for centuries and is said to be decidedly superior to linseed oil, the price of which has been increasing and the production falling off in this country.

The department has been working hard for several years with the avacado, popularly known in this latitude as the alligator pear for lack of some other name. This is not a pear at all and bears little resemblance to one except in shape. It is a salad fruit and is said to be taking hold immensely in this country, though the price of the imported tropical fruit is still too high for it to be widely popular. The department is growing it by contract arrangement with some growers in Florida and southern California, and the reports are most encouraging. No figures as to its value per acre are given out, because some of the returns have been so large that it would be unsafe to prophesy, and many people might be drawn into a hopeless venture trying to establish a vegetable gold mine. However, it can be said that the prospect is good.

Substitute For the Potato.

Many people already know of the "dasheen." This is the southern swamp land substitute for the potato that was tested at a banquet of the National Geographic society a little over a year ago. It was pronounced very good at the time, having all the qualities of the Irish potato, with a suggestion of a meat flavor unusual in a vegetable.

The dasheen is growing in the gulf states and is reported from all quarters to be one of the most desirable importations ever tried.

BROUGHT TO LIGHT

YPSILANTI PEOPLE RECEIVING THE FULL BENEFIT

There have been many cases like the following in Ypsilanti. Everyone relates the experience of people we know. There plain, straightforward statements will do much toward relieving the suffering of thousands. Such testimony will be read with interest by many people.

Charles Fletcher, 415 W. Congress St., Ypsilanti, Mich., says: "I was all run down and went from one hundred and eighty pounds to one hundred and fifty pounds in weight. My appetite was poor and my back was racked with aches and pains. When I stood, I did not feel the trouble so much, but the moment I sat down, it began. The secretions from my kidneys passed too frequently and were highly colored. Reading about Doan's Kidney Pills, I was induced to get a box at Weinmann-Matthews Co.'s Drug Store and begin their use. They soon fixed me up in good shape." (Statement given December 18, 1908.)

A Later Endorsement.

Mr. Fletcher was interviewed on September 20, 1911, and he added to the above: "I willingly confirm my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills. I use them occasionally when I feel in need of a kidney medicine and they always have a beneficial effect."

Bigger Profits.

SPRAYING can no longer be considered by the up-to-date farmer or grower as an expense. It is rather an investment. The man who sprays his orchard systematically and with the proper materials is sure to have a larger crop and more perfect fruit than the man who does not spray.

SHERWIN-WILLIAMS LIME-SULFUR SOLUTION

is a universal fungicide and insecticide for destroying San Jose Scale and other sucking insects and mites. As a Fall spray it should be used 10 days after the leaves have dropped, and as a Spring spray it should be applied just before the trees come out of their dormant state. The Spring spraying is effective against the Peach Leaf Curl as well as the scale. The proper use of this solution at the right time will increase the proportion of perfect fruit in your crops many times.

Auction Sale

The modern way and the profitable way to advertise an auction sale is the newspaper way. The Daily Press will make SPECIAL PRICES THIS YEAR FOR AUCTION ADVERTISEMENTS. THE PRESS REACHES THE PEOPLE YOU WILL WISH TO REACH, when you have an auction, and takes the advertisement of your sale right into the homes of your prospective purchasers. They are looking for bargains—you have the bargains to offer; so GET TOGETHER through the agency of the Daily Press.

Have your sale a success. The secret is to reach as many interested buyers as possible. THE AUCTIONEER WILL SELL YOUR STOCK IF YOU GET THE CROWD. That is what the Daily Press can help you to do. It will get the crowd and do it at a minimum expense. Try it.

Auction Bills

Auction Bills go well of course with newspaper advertising, in fact they go hand in hand. By using both you get better results from each. One helps the other.

The effectiveness of your sale bills depends upon the printing. That is where we can help you again. Notice the many Auction Bills about the county that are printed at the Ypsilanti Press, then notice their effective arrangement. There is the key note. WE GIVE SALE BILLS CAREFUL ATTENTION. They attract the people. That's what you want; that's what we want, and that's why so many bills are printed at the Ypsilanti Press.

THE PRESS WAY IS A SURE WAY. ADVERTISE YOUR AUCTION WELL. DO IT EARLY. IT PAYS.
